Chinese disclose coup plot

TOKYO (AP) — The "gang of four" accused of plotting a coup in China tried to have Chang Chun-chiao made premier after the death of Premier Chou En-lai in January, the official Xinhua news agency said Wednesday.

Chang, one of the four, had been a vice premier and a member of the standing committee of the Communist Party. Politburo and his next last month along with Chang Chung, widow of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, party Vice Chairman Wang Hung-wen and Politburo member Yao Wen-yuan.

Previous official broadcasts have said the four, who are regarded as radicals, began a maneuvering after Chou's death to have their own candidate named premier, but did not name him.

Travel plan to be researched

A statewide transportation plan for all modes of travel will be researched during the next two years in Utah, if funds requested by the Utah
Department of Transportation (DOT) are granted, according to the DOT.

One-hundred and twenty-five million has been requested by DOT from the federal government under the Railroad
Revitalization and Regulatory Reform

Act, the agency said.

The requested funds would finance the state's railroad planning for the next two years as well as research a statewide rail plan which will be integrated into the transportation plan.

The research will consist of surveying the activities, needs, and problems of railroads in Utah, said Howard Leathen, DOT engineer.

'Perfect target' finds petty cash

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Two holdup men who thought they picked the perfect target for a big haul — were very astonished to find only $4.21 in cash.

Office manager Donald Born said he and an employee were bound with surgical tape while the armed robbers searched for more cash and found none. Born said "It just wasn't worth a armed d robbery." The site: General Finance Co.

Archaeologists discover unknown culture in Andes

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Archaeologists have discovered the ruins of what they believe to be a previously unknown culture that existed 500 years ago and used an architecture based on the trapezoid.

The trapezoid has four sides but only two of them are parallel. Most modern architecture uses right angles.

"This is something completely new in archaeology," said Carlos Ponce Sanjines, the director of the National Institute of Archaeology. "We've come across an extremely original form of architecture and we still don't know how it developed."

The discovery in a remote region of Bolivia which also experts the ruins of a citadel called "Iskanwaya," the name given the culture that is possibly descended from the mysterious Tiahuanaco tribe, Ponce Sanjines said. The Tiahuanaco, who lived on a plain about 45 miles north of La Paz, vanished about 800 years ago.

The newly discovered culture, according to Ponce Sanjines, centered about 190 miles north of La Paz in a warm region on the eastern slopes of the Andes at about 5,000 feet above sea level. There the Iskanwaya citadel was built and surrounded by terraced garden areas used for growing grain and for supporting houses.

The construction of these houses was based upon extremely careful calculations, Ponce Sanjines said in a recent interview. But no one yet can explain the use of the trapezoid.

"We're having to study the structures slowly to see whether the culture had based its architecture on some rare geometric conception, or whether it was based upon some other characteristic of the region," Ponce Sanjines said.

"Perhaps it's a combination of factors."

He said he recognizes, however, that traditional architecture using right angles probably would not have been prohibitive in the jungled region — in fact, much easier.

Ponce Sanjines and other archaeologists opened a recent photographic exhibition of the Iskanwaya ruins in La Paz. The trapezoid is seen in the photography as clearly dominating the floor, the walls and the doors of the small family units.

Although the ruins were known to natives of the region, and it is believed to be they who named the citadel Iskanwaya, archaeological diggings did not begin three years ago.

The civilization is considered by experts here to be of the "Mollo" culture, the last known descendants of the Tiahuanaco people who are believed to have existed from 130 A.D. to 1170. The Tiahuanaco culture disappeared in the late 12th century, apparently dispersing to other areas. It is believed that drought and resulting starvation brought about the Tiahuanaco demise.

New NAACP coordinator to broaden membership

WASHINGTON (AP)

— Benjamin L. Hooks said Tuesday that when he becomes the NAACP's national coordinator next year he intends to broaden the organization's membership and improve its finances.

Hooks will return his appointment to the Federal Communications Commission to accept the job with the civil rights organization.

There has been speculation that once Jimmie L. Carter is inaugurated as President he would name Hooks as FCC chairman. Hooks is the commission's only black.

But Hooks said he is willing to resign from the agency because of a conviction that he could help more people through the NAACP job.

"I believe now I have an opportunity to address some of the great issues and problems of the day affecting our nation and its minorities," he said.

He cited unemployment, affirmative action, panel reform and an overhaul of the criminal justice system. Hooks said he expects Carter to be responsive to blacks, especially since they played such a significant role in electing the former Georgia governor.

Hooks expressed a hope that more whites and young people could be persuaded to join the nation's oldest civil rights group.

"We are trying to advance the cause of human rights," he added.

MANGIONE THE MAGNIFICENT

People who say they don't like jazz love his music. People who say they only like jazz love his music.

A reviewer for Rolling Stone recently wrote, "For the second time I've been asked to explain the Mangione phenomenon... it's all very simple really. Mangione's approach is unpretentiously wholly musical, at a high level of pop."

On his new album "Main Squeeze" Mangione has recorded the most powerful and inspired music of his career. Backed by some of the greatest rock, jazz and R&B session musicians in the world, "Main Squeeze" features the expressive genius of Mangione on flugelhorn and spotlights his incredible talent as a composer and arranger. It is an album that is brilliant in its craftsmanship, imagination, and ability to evoke feelings.

One realizes after hearing it that Mangione the Magnificent has more under his hat than meets the eye.

Man cannot change name to number 1069 court says

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — What's in a name? Not numbers, according to the North Dakota Supreme Court.

The high court refused to overturn a Cass County District Court's rejection of Michael Herbert Dengler's petition to change his name to 1069. Dengler said the numbers express his philosophy of relationships with nature, time and the universe.

Associate Justice Paul M. Sand said, "We are satisfied that the legislature, in giving authority to the courts to change a name did not include change from a name to a number."

Award honors orchestra head

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Pops Orchestra conductor Arthur Fiedler will receive the 1976 Morality in Media Award at a dinner in New York Monday night.

Fiedler was designated "the award winner" because he has brought the musical excellence of the Boston Pops Orchestra into millions of American homes, elevating the level of all media in which he has performed, "said Morality in Media Inc., a anti-pornography group.

Writing contest to offer high school students cash

High school students with the writing bug may be interested in the writing contest being sponsored by the BYU English department.

Cash prizes for fiction, poetry, and personal essay are being offered to all interested high school students. Winners will be announced and prizes awarded on April 1.

Each writer may submit one entry in each of the three categories. Fiction entries should be between 1,000 and 4,000 words. Poetry entries may be in verse form and may consist of one poem or a group of poems totaling 25 to 60 lines. The personal essays may be from 700 to 2,500 words long. All entries should have the approximate number of words entered on the first page in the upper right corner.

Each entry must be accompanied by a signed statement that it is the original work of the contestant and has not been previously published. The statement should also include the title of the entry and the author's full name, address and school name. The entries, of course, should represent the writer's best and most acceptable standards in grammar, spelling, punctuation and usage.

In addition, each entry should be neatly typed on one side of quality white paper. After page one each page should have the title typed in the upper left corner and the author's name and the page number in the upper right corner.

Contestants who wish to have their entries returned must enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope. Also, contestants are reminded to keep a carbon copy of their work. The entries should be submitted between January 1 and January 15, 1977.

The final judges for the contest include BYU writing faculty, published writers and experienced literary editors.

Contestants may mail their entries to Bruce W. Jorgensen, Chairman, RE-WRITING, A-278 JKBA, Brigham Young University.

Renovated U.S. Mint reopens as showpiece

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U.S. Mint here was "The Granite Lady" to gold miners a century ago, and it withstood the great earthquake of 1906. But it trades no longer, and in 1969 there were filth and mice where gold and silver had glinted.

Now, after a renovation project that took four years and cost $4.5 million, the mint is re-opening as a showpiece that includes offices, computers and a museum.

And the Mint is celebrating with a display of gold worth as much as it cost to fix the place up.

Centerpiece of the display is a one-of-a-kind 1907 $20 gold piece insured for $1 million. There are also gold bars and nuggets worth more than $2.5 million along with other reminders of this city's flamboyant days as a center for gold-hungry fortune hunters.

The coin, on loan from the Amark Coin Co. of Los Angeles, bears an Indian head double eagle design which was rejected by President Theodore Roosevelt in favor of a Liberty design.

Among the other items are a gold coin brought intact from the Mother Lode gold fields, a Wells Fargo stagecoach and minting machinery once used to make coins out of gold and ore.

The mint opened in 1874. It was designed by Treasury architect Alfred B. Mullett, who also designed the old Executive Office Building next to the White House. In 1937 it was one of three mints in the country, and during that time it stamped out one and one-third billion coins. Then a larger Mint opened two miles away, and the old granite structure was used for federal offices.

By the 1960s it was deteriorating badly, and proposals for its use ranged from a downtown annex for a San Francisco State University to a West Coast branch of the Smithsonian Institution. U.S. Mint Director Mary Brooks decided in 1969 that the building should be restored as an historic, but functioning landmark.

THE ASBYU SOCIAL OFFICE IS PROUD TO BRING YOU ...

IN THE

MARRIOTT ENGLAND DAN AND JOHN FORD COLEY CENTER

Concert in the Marriott Center?

It, for the first time ever the Social Office is giving a General Admission Pillow Concert in the Marriott Center. Why? Well, for one thing, it's our biggest concert crowds come out for the Preference Concert. Never before have we had a currently popular group (both latest the "Top 40" for the last 15 weeks). And the contract reads only one show. Sure Ballroom is fun for an informal, stomp type of concert, but the total capacity is a . We're going to need more room and the center has it.

Dan & Coley: "We have been extremely pleased with the public's acceptance of our last two 'single' releases; 'I'd really love to see you tonight' and 'Nights are forever.' We're really looking forward to our visit to Provo," commented Dan in a phone interview with a local radio station.

No Preferred Seating!

YES! It's finally true! No one, not even President-elect Carter, gets a preferred seat over you. It's a General Admission first come, first served seating situation where you pick your own spot. If you want floor seats, bring your pillows and be one of the first 800 to enter. If you prefer a seat, you can choose from sections 8, 9, 10 or wherever you wish . At last you can go to a great concert, afford it, get any seat you want, and not wait hours to do it. It's "unmissable!"

A Preference Concert

A great time to ask that special guy! A great time to repay that special gal for the dance the next night; or even a great time to just enjoy fantastic music with someone new. This concert will prove to be a "worth-remembering" event for all who attend. Make it part of your Preference weekend, one way or the other....

Tickets are on sale NOW!!

You can get your tickets at the ELWC 3rd Floor Ticket Office from 10:00 to 5:00, Monday through Friday. Don't worry about missing out on the best seats. All tickets are for "General Admission," so when you buy them has nothing to do with where you sit. Be the first on your block to get involved with this first time ever, record smashing, Pillow Concert! Don't forget, tickets for the Preference dances Friday the 19th are still on sale on the 3rd floor ticket office in the ELWC.

Will the Bear beat the Irish?

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bear Bryant is about to visit Notre Dame for the first time and it is questionable whether college football's book of legends can stand the strain.

"I've been to South Bend," Bryant notes, "but I've never been in the arena. I'm looking forward to it. Notre Dame is probably the football capital of the world."

Whoa there, Coach. Isn't Tuscaloosa the football capital of the world?

"Only in Alabama."

Alabama and Notre Dame have met twice — in the 1973 Sugar Bowl and the 1974 Orange Bowl — and Notre Dame winning both by a total of only three points. For that little difference, plenty was accomplished. Notre Dame won a national championship and may have cost Alabama two of them.

Right now, "Bama is on a 5-0 upgrade after a sluggish 2-2 start — "We've let other people do the coaching the last five games," Bryant says — while Notre Dame struggled to beat Navy and lost to Georgia Tech after beating five consecutive opponents without allowing a touchdown.

Will it be Bryant the legend or Notre Dame the legend? Let's try . . . Alabama 17-13.

Ohio State at Minnesota: Might the Buckeyes be looking ahead to Michigan and might they suffer the same fate that befell Michigan at the hands of Purdue? "There isn't a chance in the world of that for one reason, and you're looking at him," says Woody Hayes . . . Ohio State 31-14.

Missouri at Oklahoma: With all their troubles, the Sooners still have an outside shot at the Big Eight crown and the Orange Bowl. "We have an opportunity to take it down to the finish against Nebraska," says Coach Barry Switzer . . . Oklahoma 27-21.

Pitt

West Virginia at Pitt: The Mountaineers won last year on a last-second field goal. Anything can happen in this neighborhood rivalry, but Pitt is feeling its oats as the new No. 1 team in the land . . . Pitt 35-14.

UCLA at Oregon State: Will the Bruins be looking ahead to Southern Cal? Probably, but no matter . . . UCLA 38-6.

Washington at Southern California: Will the Trojans be looking ahead to UCLA? Probably, but no matter . . . USC 38-6.

Illinois at Michigan: Will the Wolverines be looking ahead to Ohio State? They'll probably be looking back to Purdue, and Illinois will suffer the consequences . . . Michigan 41-7.

Anti-Nazi ace dies in Cairo

NEW YORK (AP) — Hitler and Nazi Baron Gottfried von Cramm, one of the world's great tennis players in the 1930s, died in Cairo, Egypt, Tuesday. One might say that he was one of the luckier victims of Adolf Hitler's reign of terror.

"He was crucified by Budge and von Cramm were rivals before the outbreak of World War II. Budge defeated the German in the final round of both Wimbledon and the United States Championships at Forest Hills. They also met in a Davis Cup duel that some have called the greatest match ever played.

"Gottfried was superb on the court, beautiful strokes, every inch a sportsman," said Budge. "Yet he was one of the unluckiest men I know.

"He was anti-Nazi," Budge recalled. "Yet he was a German sports hero and a close friend of Reichsmarschall Hermann Goering. The Nazis never were able to break down his resistance."

"Although he had a reserve officer's commission, Gottfried was sent to the Russian front as a buck private. On the Stalingrad siege, he personally held off the Russians with a machine gun while permitting 200 German soldiers to escape."

"He was awarded the German Iron Cross on the spot by the general, who was not aware of his political persuasion. It was reported that Hitler and Goering were livid."

Rug rings resort to new connections

— The Turkish-French appears to be dormant and out of Mexico declining, and officials say all drug rings are now new connections, including in Eastern Europe, reasingly, narcotics utilizing unsuspecting persons as "mules" to account for the increase among key conclusions from 20 agents from 20 in Rome for a closed meeting that ended late Friday afternoon agreed on steps a tighter worldwide network, particularly to the rising flow of heroin at Asia's so-called "Golden heroin addiction is reaching danger points in almost every major city. Heroin seizures in Western Europe so far this year have amounted to about 700 pounds, more than triple the entire haul last year, and are likely to total some 1,200 pounds by the end of the year.

By contrast, in 1971 only 14 pounds of heroin were seized in Europe, which had served as the main processing and transit point for Turkish heroin en route to the United States.

Drug shipments destined for Western Europe — where a kilogram 2.2 pounds of heroin goes for about $25,000 — are beginning to pass through Eastern Europe, where communist agents who have concentrated their attention primarily on the western part of the continent.

According to narcotics agents, the major new connection has its source in the remote, mountainous "Golden Triangle" of Burma, Laos and Thailand, where opium poppies are grown in areas mostly controlled by antigovernment insurgents processed by laboratories in Burma.

The triangle's annual opium output is estimated at 700 tons, while another 400 tons comes from an area between Afghanistan and Pakistan.

Agents say the Southeast Asian heroin market is well into Thailand, Malaysia, then is funneled through points including Hong Kong and Vancouver, Canada, before entering the United States, mostly on the West Coast.

According to U.S. drug enforcement sources, Turkey's clampdown on illicit opium cultivation has been effective and has made heroin laboratories in the Marseille area — the noted French connection — obsolete for the time being.

Mexican "brown sugar," which grew to fill the resulting gap to the point of supplying 90 percent of America's 1.7 billion a year heroin trade, is now down to about 80 percent and expected to decline further, mainly due to a crackdown by the Mexican government.

Blacks plot S. Africa U.N. fight

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Africa's black leaders plan another drive to get Security Council sanctions against South Africa following the General Assembly's adoption Tuesday of 10 resolutions denouncing the white-minority regime and its apartheid racial policy.

The demands for economic and military sanctions will probably be blocked by Western vetoes, as previous ones have been.

Promote old bills, 'Mo' says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Morris Udall says Jimmy Carter could get off to a quiet start in the presidency by pushing for passage of some of the bills that were never enacted or fell victim to President Ford's vetoes.

"If I were he," Udall said, "I would take the half-a-dozen or so outrageous Ford vetoes of bills that have been debated and finely honed and say let's do these in February and March. Pick something that has been passed and is finely tuned and is ready to roll and put it on the road and move it."

Udall, who was runner-up to Carter in the race for the Democratic nomination, said Carter's relationship with Congress is not yet clear.

"Carter to the very end was not all that specific on the issues," the Arizona Democrat said.

"I suspect that by the middle of next year there are going to be some loud yells and some complaints."

The consumer groups believe he is on their side and many business people supported him because they believed he would back their side, Udall said.

"One or the other of these groups may be disappointed as he has to define himself by making up budgets and by making tough decisions and you're going to see a reaction in the Congress," Udall said.

There can be trouble if, for instance, Carter recommends continuing the B1 bomber or if he recommends "another whopping increase for the Defense Department" in his first budget a year from now, Udall said.

But Carter starts off with a big advantage, he said.

"We've got a president of our party in the White House."

Control of fish disease neared by Y scientists

By PEGGY LUEDTKE

The dreaded fish disease, fish eye fluke, which causes blindness, started growing exponentially with the fish, has become a scourge to both fishermen all over the world.

Where it's in the Soviet Union, Western Europe, Africa, or Utah, fish eye fluke means the same thing: potential loss of money to the commercial fisherman and loss of pleasure and a palatable meal for the weekend angler. Widespread infestation is also causing a growing concern that the fish disease might infect humans.

For the past 40 years, physical and chemical control of fish eye fluke has been the only way. Even biological control, which seems to be the only way to circumvent the disease, has previously proven unsuccessful.

Now, a breakthrough by a team of BYU scientists has provided new hope in the control of fish eye fluke. In a three-year study of infested fish in Utah, the BYU research team has found that biological control of fish eye fluke through hyperparasitism may be possible. Hyperparasitism is a process whereby a parasite is used to infect a parasite in the case of the lady bug which was brought to the United States to prey on aphids in alfalfa.

"The whole idea is to break up the life cycle of fish eye fluke," Dr. Richard Heckmann, professor of zoology and a member of the research team, said. "We want to destroy the fluke before it gets to the fish."

Dr. Jim Palmeri, a post-doctoral fellow at BYU who conducted the study, found that he could do this by introducing another organism, nosema strigoioides, into the life cycle of the fluke.

In the developmental cycle of the fluke, the egg passes from the fish through the feces and into the lake. After it develops into a free-swimming organism, it enters a small where it undergoes further development. The disease-causing organism then leaves the small and enters the fish and infects the eyes. When the fish is eaten by a bird, the life cycle is completed and the fluke begins to develop again in the bird.

The scientists found they could interrupt the life cycle of the fluke by feeding the small creature infected with nosema. Dr. Heckmann said the nosema was so successful in disrupting the life cycle of fish eye fluke that he sees good potential in using it for the biological control of the fish disease.

"We're not pioneers in the research of fish eye fluke," Dr. Heckmann said. "We joined the health problem in Utah."

He said the scientists have been working on the organism in the eye of other animals has become a great concern. A study in 1943 reports that the disease-causing organism can develop equally well in a variety of hosts including fish, amphibians, reptiles, birds and mammals.

Since completing the study, Dr. Heckmann said the team has received requests for information from all over the world. Dr. Palmeri is continuing his research in biological control with the Hooper Foundation at the University of California at Kuala Lumpur in Malaysia.

U.S. mayors

Carter may help blacks, poverty

CHICAGO (AP) — Jimmy Carter's rural Georgia background may work to the advantage of those seeking aid for economically troubled cities and poverty-stricken black communities, says a group of black mayors.

"It took a conservative president to reopen our foreign relations with Red China," said Mayor A. J. Cooper of Red Prishard, Ala. "It's possible that Carter could do things that a liberal northeasterner couldn't."

Coleman Young of Detroit said Carter's background also give him more understanding of blacks than previous presidents, explaining: "He knows what grits and greens taste like."

The mayors who were here for a two-day U.S. Conference of Mayors strategy session which concluded Monday, said blacks may be the most direct beneficiaries of the new urban strategy adopted by the mayors because blacks are more deeply mired in urban poverty.

The mayors' conference plans to discuss its priorities with Carter later this year. The plan includes creation of an Urban Development Bank, passage of an antirecession jobs bill, and reorganization of federal bureaucracies which flood city hall with paperwork.

"What we are trying to improve the quality of life in the cities, blacks are the ones who have the biggest problem," said Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark, president of the Conference.

Gibson and Young are among several big-city mayors being mentioned in the race for cabinet posts. Possible Cabinet selections sources said Tuesday.

Gibson said blacks, who provided Carter with huge electoral margins in urban areas, would press the President-elect's promises to make jobs his first priority and to be an ally of blacks.

"I wouldn't say we will hold his feet to the fire, but we are concerned about the implementation of things he said he would agree to," Gibson said.

The black mayors said bolstering urban employment should be a top Carter priority. Joblessness in the black community is higher proportionately than among whites.

The jobless rate among blacks in October was 13.5 per cent, compared to an overall national unemployment rate of 7.9 per cent.

Library tour now includes new addition

The Harold B. Lee Library tape tour that was discontinued in July is now back in operation with a new script that includes information concerning the new library addition.

The tape tour, which started in 1970, according to Marvin E. Wiggins, general reference librarian, lists library services and where they can be found.

The tape tour can be obtained from the Learning Program Library on the second floor of the library. A student submits his activity card and is given a recorder and tape. The tape, which lasts approximately 30 minutes, takes the students from the LRC throughout the library. It takes about 45 minutes with time to complete the tour, said Wiggins.

The tape tour has been found to be more effective than group tours because the tapes put the tour on a one-to-one basis. It also lets the student take the tour at his own time and convenience.

The library tape tour and a short essay on it have become part of the new general education requirements. It is already a requirement for most 100 series English courses, said Wiggins.

There are 20 copies of the tape available. A student can take the tour and examination at any time and it will be recorded, said Wiggins. The student does not have to be in a class that requires it.

Arab government invites Jews back

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — The Moroccan government — acting alone in the entire Arab world — has embarked on a massive program to bring some 230,000 Moroccan Jews to return from Israel, France, the United States and other countries to share in the future prosperity of their "real homeland."

The invitation, first addressed last March to the Moroccan Jewish community abroad by King Hassan II and Premier Ahmed Osman, has resulted in a small but steady flow of Jews back to Morocco.

Officials said about 1,000 Jews have returned this year and several hundred more are expected early in the New Year.

In the years following the end of French colonial rule in 1956, all but 17,000 of an estimated 250,000 Moroccan Jews fled in fear of persecution or programs. The Moroccan population is 98 per cent Moslem.

The government has promised to find jobs for Jews of Moroccan origin or assist them in reestablishing small businesses.

Morocco has no antidiscrimination laws and Islam is the official state religion. But Moroccan officials say that a Jewish minority has lived in peace and harmony with the Moslem population since Biblical times and was never subject to persecution. Tensions between communities arose only when independent Morocco joined the fight against Israel.

In November 1967, and again following two abortive attacks against King Hassan, Jewish communities in Morocco became unavailable, food became unavailable, and many synagogues closed. The government has promised to find jobs for Jews of Moroccan origin or assist them in reestablishing small businesses.

On March 1, King Hassan invited all Moroccans Jews to return to their homes wherever they may be, even if they are in Israel.

Encouraged by the small response to the King's invitation,

Shakespeare to be featured over KBYU

KBYU-FM will air three Shakespeare plays to celebrate Shakespeare Week on campus.

One play will be aired each Friday night at 9 p.m. for the rest of the month. "Romeo and Juliet" will be aired Nov. 12, "Macbeth" Nov. 19 and "King Lear" Nov. 26.

The program director for KBYU-FM, Lee Sorenson, said that the English Shakespeare is and remains the pre-eminent writer in the English language. Even though these plays are one-hour edited versions, we think the public will enjoy them very much.

"Romeo and Juliet" will feature Keith Mitchell and Virginia McKenna, noted Shakespearean players, in the title roles.

The Radio Dramas Director, Bernard Granbier, said "The performance of 'Romeo and Juliet' was not only a significant milestone in Shakespeare's career; it was a great event for the English language. It was a play the like of which no Elizabethan audience had ever been privileged to hear."

Drama by Ibsen will begin today

Henrik Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" will open a two-week run at BYU today as the first offering in the Experimental Theatre Season.

The new series, which includes three plays, was brought about by the popular demand of students and professors who asked for a more deeply intellectual experience in the theatre.

"The Wild Duck," first of the dramas chosen from a long list of proposals, will play in the HFAC Nelke Experimental Theater on Nov. 11-13 and 18-20.

Second in the Experimental Theatre Season will be Luigi Pirandello's "It Is So! (If You Think So)," which will run March 3-5 and 10-12. It is directed by Dr. Charles Rogers, director of the BYU Honors Program and author of the drama "Hubener." Dr. Charles Whitman, chairman of the Department of Theatre and Cinematic Arts, asked Dr. Rogers to direct the play.

The third offering will be "The Cherry Orchard" by Anton Chekhov, considered to be his most comic full-length play. The director, Dr. Charles Whitman, said the play is a socio-industrial comedy. Dr. Charles Whitman, said the play is a socio-industrial comedy.

Director Williams explains, that the inclusion of music in the play is one of the epic techniques. It will stop the action of the play, and through a song touch upon the feelings and ideas of the drama.

2 days for oratorio

The BYU Oratorio Choir, conducted by Dr. Clayne Robison, and the Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Don L. Earl, will combine today and Friday to present the rarely heard 19th century oratorio "Paradise and the Peri" by Robert Schumann.

Performances will be given in the HFAC Joe Conner Hall at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend without charge at the concerts, which are believed to be the premiere of this work in the western United States.

The oratorio will also be broadcast by BYU-TV/FM at 8 p.m. Friday. The video portion of the program will be carried on Channel 11 while the audio will be broadcast simultaneously in stereo over BYU-FM (89.3).

Dr. Earl has produced over 40 operas and operettas at BYU since joining the faculty in 1946. He obtained his B.A. and M.A. degrees at BYU with his Ph.D. at Indiana University.

Dr. Earl said her reviewed over 30 oratorios before selecting "Paradise and the Peri" for the BYU concert. "I felt that the work must present an important spiritual message and the music must be acceptable and thrilling to the performers and the listeners," he observed. "In every respect this oratorio meets these requirements."

Dr. Robison is director of the BYU Music Theatre, joined the BYU faculty in 1973. He holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from BYU, a juris doctor degree from Harvard University, and master's and doctor's degrees in music from the University of Washington.

He has conducted numerous operatic productions at BYU and has been acclaimed for his performance at prominent centers of opera in the United States.

Franco aftermath

Spain: Freedom's struggle

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

MADRID, Spain (AP) — One year since death ended Francisco Franco's long dictatorship, Spain has more than 300 political parties, a strong women's group, and a government committed to free elections. But towering obstacles still stand on the road to democracy.

Chief among these are Gen. Franco's solidly entrenched political heirs, disunity in the opposition, labor unrest and continuing political violence.

As the image that dominated Spain for almost 40 years fades, new political faces and new ideas have proliferated throughout Spain.

King Juan Carlos, who took over when Franco died Nov. 20, 1975, has legalized demonstrations, freed political prisoners and even brought a few of Franco's police to trial for torture. The word "dictatorship" has first time in the Spanish press for the first time in four decades.

But the first year has also brought

Spain an eight-fold increase in strikes, devaluation of its peseta and political violence.

The rigid moral standards that Franco, firmly enforced are under attack. The wealthy floods of newswstands and a Madrid stripper called Susana Estrada now earn more money than King Juan Carlos.

Despite the apparent changes, most of the longtime ruler's institutions stand untouched, blocking what new leaders say is the road to democracy. Franco's control, the Cortes (Parliament), the king's advisory council, the army, the police, the courts and the National Movement, the only political organization Franco ever allowed.

Spain's "the bunker" by their components are fortified by Franco's fervent anti-communism, they run many of the 50 governments, the city halls and the bureaucracy. In a parody of Portuguese-Ethiopian leftist slogans, the Francoists declare: "A united Spain can never be defeated."

Premier Adolfo Suárez, the second government chief under Juan Carlos, has vowed to uproot the bunker. But as the first anniversary of Franco's death nears, there is sign it will be difficult.

He has proposed to replace the Franco-appointed Cortes with a freely elected bicameral legislature that presumably would name their own premier and rewrite Franco's constitution. He plans to seek public endorsement later with a national referendum.

The problem is that the program needs two-thirds approval from the Cortes.

Nonetheless, government sources say they are confident the reforms will pass because the right has no choice politically but to go along with the government's plan for orderly transfer of the parliament refuses, they say, the king takes the matter directly to the people.

But opposition from the entrenched right is not the only problem confronting democracy. Another is that the leftist opposition, hounded and jailed by Franco over the years, appears divided.

The key dispute is over government recognition of the Communist party, illegal since Franco banned it at the end of the Spanish civil war in 1939. The moderate left, principally the Socialists, is debating whether to boycott elections if the Communists are allowed to participate.

Suárez has privately indicated Spain is not ready to legalize what Franco regarded as the country's No. 1 enemy.

The government has also run into problems with its police, who often appear to act on their own. For example, Madrid Mayor Pedro Martín Villa promised Basques that the paramilitary Civil Guard — strongly disliked in the independence-minded Basque region — would not be used in the future to control demonstrations. But the head of the Guard denied the statement.

The anniversary of Franco's death has brought new confrontations. Led by the newspaper El Alcazar, organ of war veterans who fought with Franco, the right has called for a show of pro-Franco strength in open competition to the official government ceremonies.

Nebo Alternative School offers a second chance at learning

By ROBERT CHRISTMAS
Daily Universe Staff Writer

A 16-year-old boy from Spanish Fork has an educational problem to resolve just as did Todd Stuart. Woods recalled, "I told my mom there was no way I would go to high school. I tried to get in at Trade Tech (Utah Technical College at Provo) but they wouldn't admit 16-year-olds, so I came here."

There is a Nebo School District Alternative School, which was established this year at Spanish Fork to provide an alternative for students who can't make it, either academically or socially, in regular high schools.

Russell is one of 33 students in the school now. Supervisor Bob Evans says, "We are probably adding other students (there are three now) and expand to include about 60 students by the end of the year, but we want to hold enrollment to a teacher-student of ratio of one to about eight or ten."

The students have a hard time expressing why they failed in regular school. One of them, Bill Court, says, "If it weren't for this place I wouldn't be in school. Before, the teachers seemed more interested in keeping everybody in their place. Here we are treated like individuals."

Whatever the cause of their disillusionment, they end up in the Alternative School, simply because they didn't go to their regular school classes. D'Ann Lee, social worker and recreational therapist who works at the school, explained, "You could say every one of the students is here because of attendance problems at his regular high school. Attendance is only the top of the problem — underneath is deviant behavior, not being accepted by peers, lack of a successful educational example at home."

Attendance is a concern because the Nebo district requires a student to earn between 12 and 18 units of credit for graduation. Credit is cut for stuffing classes. For a student like Court, who refused to attend any classes, it would have been impossible to catch up in the regular system — in fact, he could lose enough credit to go on the drop-out list.

At the Alternative School, attendance is voluntary. Teacher Don Jones explained, "We don't cut credit if a student doesn't come, but if he misses school, he isn't earning any either."

If a student doesn't come, the teacher try to find out why. "We try always to confront them. They need to be accountable. We want to teach them responsibility, but we try to do it as a concerned teacher. Instead of appearing as 'This is the high school calling, where are you?' I would rather come across as, 'Hey, this is Don, how come you aren't in school?'"

The school is striving to maintain the 90 per cent attendance, it is now averaging. Jones said there were some problems, such as 12 unexcused absences in one week, but he maintains attendance is not a serious problem. Court agreed, "Students come here regularly. We look at it like it's our school and our experience, and most of us want to come," he said.

They want to come, perhaps, because of the individuality of instruction.

Jones explained how it works with another student, Todd Stuart.

"Todd wasn't interested in science as a whole, but he was interested in genetics, so he prepared individual assignments for him to complete, and it has worked out quite well."

The points Stuart earns for completing assignments can then be applied towards graduation credit. He gets a letter grade for the quality of his work.

Jones continued explaining how the teachers interest students who have become disillusioned with learning:

"We are always trying to get them to relate their assignments to life. Some of our students are going elk hunting, and I've given them the assignment of figuring out the cost per pound per pound. This way it will be an educational experience for them."

Class instruction is held in the mornings. In the afternoon, the students have their choice of three options: (1) Work study (2) Voluntary Service (3) Independent study.

The purpose of work study is to teach responsibility and good work habits. Jones explained the staff tries to place students in areas of interest, where they can get some career training. That is not always possible, but the experience is still valuable, Jones says.

"I don't think some of our girls want to spend their lives as waitresses, but they have been taught something about contacting an employer, what to do during a job interview and what is expected of an employee," he said.

Teacher Mickey Barna explained students can use the individual study time to catch up. If a student lost credit at his regular school, he can complete assignments during this time to make up for lost credit.

Others, like Stuart, pursue interests. Todd is interested in sculpture and uses the time his creations.

Most students feel the school is a positive experience. Todd, who was on the way to becoming a drop-out, considering further education, possibly at Utah College.

There is, however, some about how the school is viewed in the community. "Some people asked if I was going back to High," Stuart recalled.

"I told them I was going to Alternative School and they mean Hippie High." "My parents weren't too happy about the school at first. They would have some kind of doubt where it would be an through."

He responded to the question, "Is a student was doing what he wasn't even attending, at least they are doing something if it is some of our girls who want to be beautiful. They are with their appearance. Before they were trying to see how

He added, "We've got a lot of kids to quit smoking, we seem to smoke because they are teaching them to balance and figure their income. Mickey's class, they start events by reading the newspaper and then they are interested in what's going on with them. Many of these girls are disillusioned with life. Mickey teaches them the world is not place after all."
